1 Brand Fundamentals

Vision

The overall vision of our brand was to create a visual identity that at its core accompanied our university's transition into the new campus. As so, we intrinsically undertook two design choices that reflected this main idea.

Firstly, we decided to use blue, red and green as our brand's primary colors. These are primary colors in digital design (RGB) which is a core concept of the subjects taught at IADE.

Secondly, the overarching idea of the identity, which seeks to bring back and juxtapose the memory of the two previous campuses with our new home, particularly in the identity's details and secondary elements, which will be displayed and explained further.

Furthermore, the core of our project lies in the betterment of the current wayfinding system. Due to this, our identity was created with this in mind, so that it works seamlessly with a physical signage system that functions effectively.

Values

Clarity

Because of our identity's main objective is to work closely in parallel with our wayfinding system, a core value of it is its ability to be clear, synchronously with our system. It must be effective in a range of scenarios and must convey the campus' initials directly without much effort or previous knowledge

Contemporaneity

Because this is a time of change for IADE, it is imperative our identity has a sense of contemporaneity, and that it is appropriate for today's design scene. The design breathes and features a modern-future outlook, perfectly pairing the university's current moment.

Creativity

Because this is a flagrant issue with the new campus, its overall lack of creativity. We consider this anachronic with a design university's home, as so one of our identity's values is to bring creativity to the currently barren walls of the interior of the campus

Tone

The tone for our identity is a homogenous connection between modernity, providing the campus with a current and appropriately modern identity, and creativity, reinforcing the campus' distinctive focus in the creative field.

The modern trait of the identity is mainly provided by the logo and typography, with their sleeker, sharper edges that are akin to modern design cues, especially in the digital space, taking inspiration from examples such as the Metro design language's flat, professional iconography.

Whereas, the creative tone of the identity leans more on the color choices. The colorful nature of the logo and the overall identity naturally achieves this, and with the aforementioned link to the primary digital colors, reinforces the message of the creative campus that we seek to achieve.

Logo

Our logo's rationale is that each square represents a different home of IADE.

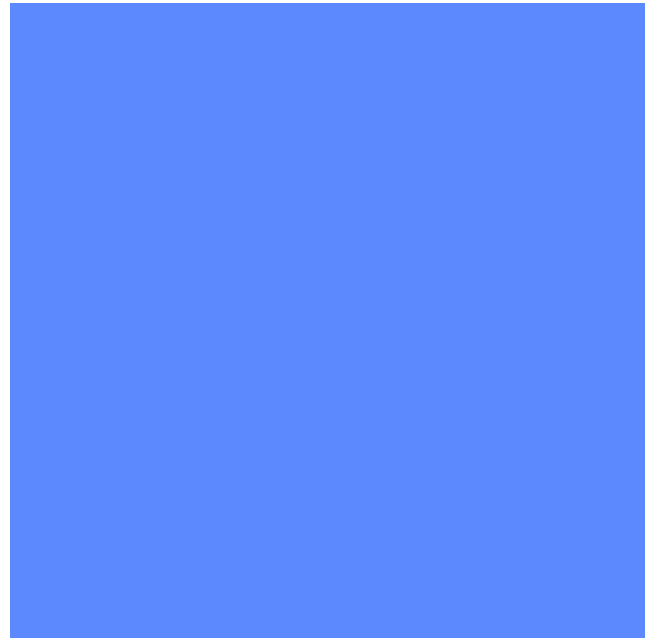

The first, "O", is a nod to the Chiado Palace in Lisbon. The round, curve star-like shape is inspired by the ornate awnings of the palace, and the blue color also is also widely featured in monarchic portuguese symbology.

The second, "G", is connected to IADE's iconic Santos campus, which was probably the most prominent part of the university's identity. The sash cut in the letter is a reference to the building's infamous X-shaped facade.

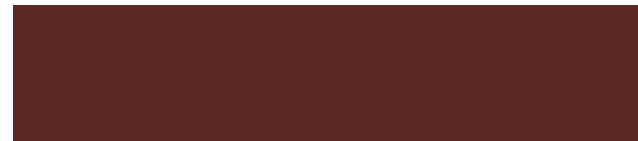

The third, "C", is representative of the current new Oriente Green Campus. Seen also in the color choice, the clean, simple C letter is representative of the new campus' sleeker look in comparison to the previous campuses.
